

GLOWHAUSDIGITAL

The Planner Insert Guide

+

• Printing, trimming, punching and loving your ring-bound edition

POCKET · COMPACT · CLASSIC · MONARCH

First, Measure

Ring binders vary more than their labels suggest, so before printing anything, take one page you already use out of your binder and measure it. Match it to the table; if your pages differ by more than a couple of millimeters, choose the closer size and trim to match your existing pages.

Edition	Finished page size	File
Pocket	3.5 x 6 in (89 x 152 mm)	Lions_Gate_Planner_Pocket_3.5x6.pdf
Compact	4.25 x 6.75 in (108 x 171 mm)	Lions_Gate_Planner_Compact_4.25x6.75.pdf
Classic	5.5 x 8.5 in (140 x 216 mm)	Lions_Gate_Planner_Classic_5.5x8.5.pdf
Monarch	8.5 x 11 in (216 x 279 mm)	Lions_Gate_Planner_Monarch_8.5x11.pdf

Franklin Planner and FranklinCovey are trademarks of their respective owners. This independently created digital product is not affiliated with, sponsored by, approved by or endorsed by Franklin Planner or FranklinCovey. Brand names are used only to help customers identify compatible page dimensions. Please measure your existing planner pages and binder before printing.

Path A: Precut Paper

If you own paper already cut to your planner size (or a stack of trimmed pages), print the sized PDF directly onto it.

- 1 Create the custom size
In your printer settings, add a custom paper size matching the table (for example 3.5 x 6 in for Pocket). On many home printers this lives under Paper Size > Manage Custom Sizes.
- 2 Load carefully
Small paper usually feeds from the manual or rear tray, centered or edge-aligned per your printer's diagram.
- 3 Print at 100 percent
Actual Size, portrait orientation, no scaling, no centering adjustments.
- 4 Test two pages
Print pages 2-3 double-sided first. Hold them to the light: the binding margins should mirror (wide edge on the ring side of both faces). If the back is upside down, switch between long-edge and short-edge flipping.
- 5 Print the rest
Duplex with the flip setting your test proved, or single-sided if you prefer writing on one face.

Borderless caution: do not enable borderless/edge-to-edge modes; they scale the page slightly and shift the punch margin.

Path B: Print and Trim

No precut paper? Use the print-and-trim files: inserts arranged on ordinary US Letter or A4 sheets with fine cut marks, centered to minimize waste.

File	Layout
Pocket_Inserts_Print_on_US_Letter / _A4	3 inserts per landscape sheet
Compact_Inserts_Print_on_US_Letter / _A4	2 inserts per landscape sheet
Classic_Inserts_Print_on_US_Letter / _A4	1 insert centered per portrait sheet

- 1

Print at 100 percent
Actual Size; the footer on every sheet confirms the finished dimensions.
- 2

Duplex if you like
Each sheet is labeled front or back and states its flip edge (short edge for landscape sheets, long edge for Classic). Run a one-sheet test; every cut stack then reads front/back like a bound page.
- 3

Cut on the marks
A rotary trimmer or ruler-and-knife gives straighter edges than scissors. Cut inside the marks in single confident passes.
- 4

Keep order
Sheets are numbered; cut one sheet at a time and stack as you go, and the inserts stay in page order.

Punching & Living With It

Hole punching, honestly

Ring spacing varies between binder brands and generations, which is why these pages carry no printed hole marks: marks matching one binder would mislead every other. The reliable method takes one minute.

- 1 Borrow a template
Take a punched page that already lives in your binder.
- 2 Align and mark
Lay it over one printed insert, ring edge to ring edge (the wide margin), and mark through the existing holes with a pencil.
- 3 Test-punch one sheet
Punch that single insert, try it in the binder, adjust, and only then punch in small batches.

The binding margin on every page is generous on purpose: Pocket 0.72 in, Compact 0.8 in, Classic 0.92 in, Monarch 1.15 in on the ring side, mirrored across page faces for duplex printing. Writing lines and page numbers stay clear of the punch zone.

Tabs

The planner's sections match the nine printable tabs in your download (Begin through Notes). Print, cut, fold and place them on each section's first page; full instructions ride along in the tabs file.

License summary: your purchase includes a single-user personal-use license. Print and use everything for yourself as often as you like; please do not share, resell, redistribute, or use the files with clients, students or groups without a separate license. The complete license is inside the main workbook. Franklin Planner and FranklinCovey are trademarks of their respective owners. This independently created digital product is not affiliated with, sponsored by, approved by or endorsed by Franklin Planner or FranklinCovey. Brand names are used only to help customers identify compatible page dimensions. Please measure your existing planner pages and binder before printing.

Measure once, punch twice-shy, and it will live happily in your rings for years.

GLOWHAUSDIGITAL